

Release Your Faith for a Miracle

When you release your faith to God,
He can then respond with a miracle.

So many people don't want to go the distance with God. They want to stay within their own limited belief system.

They say, "God, I can believe You this far, but that's as far as I can go."

That's where Peter was in Luke 5.
When Jesus told him to sail out into the Sea of Galilee and let down his nets, Peter thought, I'll take out only one net to humor him.

He was in for a surprise!

He sailed out and threw one net overboard. Suddenly, he felt a tug on his shoulders. Fish had hit his net.

Peter experienced a net-breaking, boat-sinking miracle!

What would have happened if he would have had faith to put down more than one net like Jesus said?

When you pray for your own miracle, release your faith. If you pray for others' miracles, then first teach them how to release their faith and believe God for themselves.

You are the vessel, the conduit, through which God can move.

You don't have healing power, but you're hooked up to the One who does.

God can use you to bring about a miracle. Never be intimidated to release your faith for a miracle!
